Cagnina di Romagna

Nobody knows where the name "Cagnina" (Ca-N'EE-na) comes from. It is known that this wine, made out of 100% Refosco grapes, has been made in the Romagna region just south of Venice since the 13th century.

The wine was called Cagnina even in those days. Grapey, jammy, smooth as silk and seductively sweet, this is a wine that is easy to fall in love with.
