

"Bellamico"
Falanghina
Beneventano IGP
Campania

The Falanghina grape may well have been the variety responsible for ancient Rome's most famous wine, Falernum.

The modern version is pale straw in color, with varietal aromas, a clean, dry mid-palate and an intriguing finish.

"Bellamico"
Falanghina
Beneventano IGP
Campania

The Falanghina grape may well have been the variety responsible for ancient Rome's most famous wine, Falernum.

The modern version is pale straw in color, with varietal aromas, a clean, dry mid-palate and an intriguing finish.

"Bellamico"
Falanghina
Beneventano IGP
Campania

The Falanghina grape may well have been the variety responsible for ancient Rome's most famous wine, Falernum.

The modern version is pale straw in color, with varietal aromas, a clean, dry mid-palate and an intriguing finish.

"Bellamico"
Falanghina
Beneventano IGP
Campania

The Falanghina grape may well have been the variety responsible for ancient Rome's most famous wine, Falernum.

The modern version is pale straw in color, with varietal aromas, a clean, dry mid-palate and an intriguing finish.

"Bellamico"
Falanghina
Beneventano IGP
Campania

The Falanghina grape may well have been the variety responsible for ancient Rome's most famous wine, Falernum.

The modern version is pale straw in color, with varietal aromas, a clean, dry mid-palate and an intriguing finish.

"Bellamico"
Falanghina
Beneventano IGP
Campania

The Falanghina grape may well have been the variety responsible for ancient Rome's most famous wine, Falernum.

The modern version is pale straw in color, with varietal aromas, a clean, dry mid-palate and an intriguing finish.

